

So Well

Minnie Driver

I will pass by your house and not look
I won't pick up the phone, I'll read a book
I will put your pictures in a wooden box

I will fit my heart next time with fewer locksI can let you go, I can let you go but I can lie as well

Ask my friends how you doing, say you're doing well

But you can lie as well, so wellI won't feel the rush of you under my skin

My poor brain will play your voice, I'm not tuning in

Too soon to know, the first thing I'll forget

I can let you go but not your memory yetI can let you go, I can let you go but I can lie as well

Ask my friends how you doing, say you're doing well

But you can lie as well, so wellAnd I will put your pictures in a wooden box

And I will find a heart next time with fewer locksI can let you go, I can let you go but I can lie as well

Ask myself how you doing, say you're doing well

But you can lie as well, so well, so well, so well
