Obsession

Kylie Minogue

Dress me up a thousand ways, you're counting down the days
'Til I fall from my pedestal
And then you can rescue me all the world can see
You're the center of it all
We gave it our best try but then it was goodbye
We were better off alone
But now that's all gone for you and life is wrong for you
But I can't help that
You don't need love it's a question of obsession
So drawn to your own reflection
You want someone like a personal possession
To shine light on your perfection
Call me up a thousand times, you're hanging on the line
Waiting for me to react
But we've been here before and when I closed the door
I never wanted a second act
I saw it all clearly but you didn't hear me
Thought our love was center stage
But now that's all gone for us and you are dangerous
And I can't help that
You don't need love it's a question of obsession
So drawn to your own reflection
You want someone like a personal possession
To shine light on your perfection
You don't need love it's a question of obsession
So drawn to your own reflection
You want someone like a personal possession
To shine light on your perfection
Gave my heart a thousand times and I can't count the nights
That I cried myself to sleep
But now I'm so over you and I see what you do
Your sincerity's kinda cheap
Remember the mind games driving me insane
When my life was not my own
And even though you have gone, it still carries on
And I can't stop it
You don't need love it's a question of obsession
So drawn to your own reflection
You want someone like a personal possession

To shine light on your perfection
You don't need love it's a question of obsession
So drawn to your own reflection
You want someone like a personal possession
To shine light on your perfection
Obsession is dangerous state of mind
Obsession is dangerous state of mind
Obsession is dangerous state of mind
