

Oceans

Beau

We lived on an ocean
Where the sun caught every corner
There wasn't any shield
From the light breaking through our veils
The light was breaking through our veils
Suddenly everything about us was revealed
Everything about us
One could steal We drowned in the water
Where the tides just came harder
The waves were crashing through
And the water was seeping in
And the water seeping in
Suddenly we drowned within our skin
There wasn't any way out
From this sin
I, I love the way I saw you
Staring at me glancing down
At my outfit
You, you glanced away once
You caught me watching you
Watch me I'm a-falling down
I'm a-falling down We died on an island
Where there wasn't any water to survive and
The cold night shielded us from the light
But the absence of water nearly caused a (?)
Sooner or later we would shrivel up like dust
So only the smallest things could lay on (?) I'm falling down
I wanna feel you on an open ground
I need to get every little thing right out
Of my way
Blocking everything at the same time
I need to be shielded from the lights
I need to get it out of my sight
Before it blinds me I loved the way I saw you
Staring at me glancing down
At my outfit
You, you glanced away once
You caught me watching you
Watch me I'm a-falling down

I'm a-falling down
