Tunnel Vision

Indecision

self preservation - the end of ambition life is so long when you spend it waiting for all the things you'll never be getting everything you don't deserve is everything you want you think you deserve everything you want now you're getting older your whole life is over the glass stares right back - you watch yourself disappear in the bathroom mirror - like so many others in tunnel vision we see ourselves with eyes wide open lying awake at night hating ourselves for not living the life that we should have led life is so long when there?s nothing worth living for life is so long when there?s no one else
