

â€ˆthen I Defy You, Stars

The Receiving End of Sirens

The apparitions tango to the sound of their heels tapping
A procession of prosthetic limbs and mannequins
They're all perfect models of imperfection
With marrow made of cellophane
Strap on your ballroom best
Breathe in and don't exhale
Oh, Juliet! Oh, Juliet!
Deny your name, your father
Strap on your ballroom best
Breathe in and don't exhale
Oh, Juliet! Oh, Juliet!
Deny your name, your father
Rearrange the cells that form my skin
See them through kaleidoscope eyes
Because everybody feigns sometimes
Times, times
Blur your eyes, Romeo
Bend the lines, Romeo
Do you like what you see?
Oh, Romeo
Where art thou? I've dressed up this canvas skin
Painted something colorful just for you
Self-inflicted surgery is now routine
It erases all traces of faces
Where art thou? I've dressed up this canvas skin
Painted something colorful just for you
Self-inflicted surgery is now routine
It erases all traces of faces
We have all known
We have all owned
Where art thou? I've dressed up this canvas skin
Painted something colorful just for you
Self-inflicted surgery is now routine
It erases all traces of faces
Where art thou? I've dressed up this canvas skin
Painted something colorful
Self-inflicted surgery is now routine
It erases all traces of faces
Where art thou? I've dressed up this canvas skin

Painted something colorful
Self-inflicted surgery is now routine
It erases all traces of faces
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>