Time: The Beginning

Megadeth

Father time, I'm running late
I'm winding down, I'm growing tired
Seconds drift into the night
The clock just ticks till my time expires
You were once my friend, now I know I can't tie your hands
The days I saved, I couldn't spend
They fell like sand through the hourglass
No time to lose, no time to choose
Time, taking time, it's taken mine
Scenes of my life seem so unkind
Time, chasing time, creeps up behind
I can't run forever and time waits for no one, not even me
An enemy I can't defend
My final days, a deadly end
Life is just a speck in space
Dreams of an eternal resting place
I can't get any younger
Time has brutal hunger
Time, taking time, it's taken mine
Scenes of my life seem so unkind
Time, chasing time, creeps up behind
I can't run forever and time waits for no one, waits for no one, not even me
