

Hey Joni

Sonic Youth

Hey Joni, put it all behind you
Hey Joni, now I put it all behind me too
These times can't add up, your life's such a mess
Forget the past and just say yes Tell me Joni, am I the one
To see you through?
In this broken town can you still jack in
And know what to do? I remember our youth, our high ideals
I remember you were so uptight
That time in the trees, we broke that vice
We took some steps and now we can't think twice Tell me Joni, am I right by you?
Tell me, how you're gonna lose this hard luck?
Hey Joni, when will all these dreams come true?
You'd better find a way to climb down off that truck Shots ring out from the center of an empty field
Joni's in the tall grass
She's a beautiful mental jukebox, a sailboat explosion
A snap of electric whipcrack She's not thinking about the future
She's not spinning her wheels
She doesn't think at all about the past
She's thinking long and hard about that wild sound
And wondering will it last? Kick it Hey Joni, put it all behind you
There's something turning, it's turning right to you
My head burns but I know you'll speak the truth, hey
Hey Joni, put it all behind you Hey Joni, now I've put it all behind me too
Forget the future
These times are such a mess
Tune out the past and just say yes It's 1963
It's 1964
It's 1957
It's 1962 Put it all behind you
Now it's all behind you
