Almost There

Trust Company

Disappointment undivided, this is dangerous for you
Lay down, it's taking over but the stars will still align
And I'm understanding you reading words between the lines
Stay down, it's far from over, maybe I should
Back down from the conversation, this is my chance to runYou're taking my hand, we're almost there
One second away from this, this is my chance to finally run
You're taking my hand, we're almost there
One second away from this, this is my chance to finally runFrail and fragile, lost in time, this means everything to you
Disengage and start it over but the stars will still align
And I see this clearly now, all these words are underlined
I'm taking back everything I said, maybe I should
Back down from the conversation, this is my chance to runYou're taking my hand, we're almost there
One second away from this, this is my chance to finally run
You're taking my hand, we're almost there
One second away from this, this is my chance to finally runCloser to you than I've ever been before
And we're still right here
Closer to you than I've ever been before
This is my chance to runYou're taking my hand, we're almost there
One second away from this, this is my chance to finally run
You're taking my hand, we're almost there
One second away from this, this is my chance to finally runNow with every step we take We're almost there, we're almost there
We're almost there right now

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/