

Will You Light My Way

Matthew Ebel

Sometimes its better that we dont know where were going.

We bet it all, but our cards are rarely showing.

It always ends the same:

We cash in all our chips and leave the game. The house is dimmed and theres no more sound to sing to.

The light you see are the flames that we all cling to

And you were quite the blaze-a torch among the tea lights on parade. So will you light my way? We move on down a road that leads to somewhere

were not sure, but we hope that you will be there.

We wont be the same,

were brighter now youve given us your flame.

Maybe someday we will meet again.
