Novocain

Fit for Rivals

I'm not your ordinary girl,
When I first came into this world,
I was born without a heart,
In the cold,
In the dark.
Don't think there's a right solution,
People like me are the pollution.
Mix the dirty with the clean,
Lost my way in the between.Maybe I'm a little too obsessive,
I know you think I'm a manic depressive
No, there's nothing I don't regret
So listen up close so you don't forgetI think Novocain runs through my veins,
I don't know how to love,
Or how to feel.
When the sun turns black,
And we all decay.
I will feel nothing, wouldn't change anything.So fill me up on your prescription.
Can't hear me you never listen.
Tried so hard to play the part,
In disguise from the start.
There's no logic in your lesson.
Thoughts are skewed through my perception,
Blur the line a million times,
So now I've made it out alive.Maybe I'm a little too obsessive,
I know you think I'm a manic depressive
No, there's nothing I don't regret
So listen up close so you don't forgetI think Novocain runs through my veins,
I don't know how to love,
Or how to feel.
When the sun turns black,
And we all decay.
I will feel nothing, wouldn't change anything.Whoa, change anything
Whoa, wouldn't change anything.
Wouldn't change anythingI think Novocain runs through my veins,
I don't know how to love,
Or how to feel.
When the sun turns black,
And we all decay.
I will feel nothing, wouldn't change anything.Whoa, change anything

Whoa
