Strength in You

Kim Richey

You been up all night, down all day
Every road you take is turning you the wrong way
You're acting like you lost your only friend
Yeah, you're looking like something that the cat dug
In and out of luck, you're hanging by a prayerIf you think you're falling apart
I swear I'll be there forever, pull you back together
If you think you're coming unglued
You've got a problem, I'll share it
I will be the strength in youOh, I've got this place we should go
Maybe have a drink with someone that I used to know
She held me up when I was down
But it's been a while since I've seen that face around
And I remember we always found an answerIf you think you're falling apart
I swear I'll be there forever, pull you back together
If you think you're coming unglued
You've got a problem, I'll share it
I will be the strength in youSadness hides the light inside of youHey, don't you remember
We always found an answerIf you think you're falling apart
I swear I'll be there forever, pull you back together
If you think you're coming unglued
You've got a problem, I'll share it
I will be the strength in youIf you think you're falling apart
I will be the strength in you
If you think you're coming unglued
I will be the strength in you
