

Deception of the Crush

Eugene McGuinness

Her halo hovers up above her horns
Her tail whips her wings when she flies
She descends from where the heavens are torn Racing the lightning to your eager eyes
She'll follow you on your rat-race run
Haunting all the plasma windows
It's the deception of the crush you know
I heard her hometown lies in rubble and dust
She'll bounce you off her bedroom walls
But float around for long enough
She'll spray the killer aerosol
Oh how can she abandon Sprinkling her phantoms wherever you go
It's the deception of the crush you know
