

Scratching the Surface

Saga

So you won't tell me, where you've been up to now
I don't know, they've seen you come and go (Oh)
You're well on your way but never leaving the chair
 Playing scenes on TV screens
 Watching widely to glimpse the full view
 While the hours have their hands all over you
 You say that you see me, well I see you too
I look behind, what do you find, all but an empty room
 Scratching the surface and you can't get away
You've traveled far and so far you have nothing to sayScratching the surface
 You better come up for air
 A new experience to get you there
 Scratching the surface
 You better come up for air
Strapped to the media, a machine to fearYou're onto something then it slips right away
 It's in your hand, follow through right in front of you
 You say that you hear me, well I hear you too
 My secret is no secret, outside of the tube
 So you won't tell me, what you've done up to now
 You're watching me, I'm watching you decide (Oh)
 Scratching the surface, you can't get away
You tried so hard, and so far you have nothing to sayScratching the surface
 You better come up for air
 A new experience to get you there
 Scratching the surface
 You better come up for air
Strapped to the media, a machine to fearScratching the surface
 You better come up for air
 A new experience to get you there
 Scratching the surface
 You better come up for air
Strapped to the media, a machine to fearScratching the surface
 Scratching the surface
 Scratching the surface

Songwriters

JAMES CRICHTON, JAMES GILMOURPublished by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Warner/Chappell Music, Inc.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>