

Electricity

Weather Pending

If the stars were just right and the moon pulled us closer and the sun pulled the flower from the tired grey ashes and the light in the sky framed the smile just right would you be mine, would you be mine, would you be mine? We could just lie awake all night like this We could just dream we could just dream we could just dream Under the sky, and side by side like this We could just be, we could just be, we could just be Electricity through me, electricity through me, electricity through me tonight Walk on the waves in the blue space all night like this oh, we could just glide, we could just glide we could just glide Sunset in my heart in every part because I waited so long within my dream, within my dreams, within my dreams I have Electricity through me, electricity through me, electricity through me tonight If the stars were just right and the moon pulled us closer and the sun pulled the flower from the tired sore ashes and the light in the sky framed the smile just right would you be mine, would you be mine, would you be mine
