Burn

Iration

Dark skies over the avenue
Just another storm you put me through
And though the raindrops hit the ground
Nothing we can do can stop this fire now
Started with a beat from a jealous heart
Grew into the words that pushed our world apart
And now I'm standing out in the cold
Wishing you had heard me when I told you that...This love will burn away this way
And this love is over when you say
Whoa
This time and I won't let go
When the walls come down you'll know I told you so
This love will burn away this way
I know it's crazy but I can't deny
You shot me in the heart with an alibi
I know I've been a fool a couple times before
But I was blinded by the fact that I wanted more
Now I confess it's getting hotter and I'm quite sure
That I can't make it long enough to find a cure
And even though I hear you begging me to stay
I'm watching our love burn away
