Echoes of Life

Threshold

Everything's gone out of control silently sliding away
Destiny's end is calling again the future was yesterday
Visions of light fade in my eyes energy falls from my hands
Faint in the night echoes of life drown in the day's demands
How did I get so strandedHere I am built a house on the sand
And I know I've been slipping away too fast
Slipping awayI caught a glimmer of what could be Another future a possibility
But just a blink and it was gone
And I was staring back at me
Forever dreaming of what to do
Never achieving I never see it through
Don't want to live like yesterday
This time my dreams are coming trueThe clouds are rolling by there's purpose in the sky
I'm rooted to the ground procrastinating
The sun's about to set and nothing's happened yet
Don't want to close my eyes I'm tired of waitingLost in the safety of modern times
Nobody tells you to read between the lines
So you could stumble in the dark
Or you could open up your eyesThe clouds are rolling by there's purpose in the sky
I'm rooted to the ground procrastinating
The sun's about to set and nothing's happened yet
Don't want to close my eyes I'm tired of waiting
I'm tired of waitingI caught a glimmer of what could be Another future a new reality
I'm going to chase it through the night
I'm going to bring it back to meThe clouds are rolling by there's purpose in the sky
I'm rooted to the ground procrastinating
The sun's about to set and nothing's happened yet
Don't want to close my eyes I'm tired of waiting
I'm tired of waitingHere I am built a house on the sand
And I know I've been slipping away too fast
Slipping awayVisions of light fade in my eyes energy falls from my hands
Faint in the night echoes of life drown in the day's demands
How can I stop them from slipping away

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/