He Paid the Debt

Stephen Swanson

He paid a debt He dint owe, I owed a debt I couldnâ€™t pay
He did it all, all for you and me.
Yeah He did. It all for you and me and He did it all on calvery
And now His blood, His blood will set us free.

His hands and feet they nailed through and He wore a crown for me and you.
A crown of thorns they placed on His head.
An empty tomb was to be His bed, His bed for the son of God would soon be dead
And they thought , they thought that they had won.

But death and the grave could never win for the Son of God He had no sin.
Three days later you know he rose again.
Well He rose again for all to see and He rose again fo you and me, He rose as the king of kings
Yeah, to set us free

His name is Jesus the living one yeah the one and only God and I hope, I hope you know Him now.
And when He said that He was gonna rise right before their blood thirsty eyes.
Well, they thought, they thought that He was telling lies.

But Heâ€™s coming soon to call us home weâ€™re going to see Him on the throne
And weâ€™ll cast our crowns at Him, yeah weâ€™ll cast our crowns at His feet right where you and I are gonna meet and I hope, I hope to see you there.
