

I Don't Know How Love Starts

Clay Walker

Maybe it's the glance from across the room
Or a hint of just the right perfume
Suddenly two strangers become friendsI don't know how love starts
But I sure know how it endsA few angry words you just can't take back
Cold bitter tears as a suitcase is packed
Next thing you know you're back to being strangers againI don't know how love starts
But I sure know how it endsMaybe it's the way she says your name
And no one else's touch feels quite the same
Suddenly you find you're fallin' inI don't know how love starts
But I sure know how it endsA few angry words you just can't take back
Cold bitter tears as a suitcase is packed
Love comes and goes but don't ask me why or whenI don't know how love starts
But I sure know how it endsNo, I don't know how love starts
But I sure know how it ends
