Traffic Light

Jared Evan

everyday when i wake up, wake up they tell me to wake up, wake up i dont know why the life i live its slow tell me what the laughing is this for dont be afraid to let go its late at night, i see a light and it goes flashing through my soul am i loosing sight, is it all alright i make these choices on my own but it aint over until its over and i dont know which way to gosaid im sitting at the traffic light and its flashing bright, said im sitting at the traffic light, oh, oh and i dont know which way to goyou say im rock but im not im hip hop but im pop and all they label me as is a kid rock with a shot so leave me alone and let me just sing what i want to, because i got to when i was a kid, my daddy played guitar he showed me led zeppelin, the beatles and the doors yeah, it wasnt only rock and rock, hip hop was embedded on my soul so how the fuck do they define me, my musics like a maze and all they do is try to find me why they gotta prime me open up and scrutinize pick a better person to pick on and fucking criticize dont let me, feel like that, listen to me then you can take the mic back when will i get homesaid im sitting at the traffic light
and its flashing bright,
and i dont know which way to go x 2
