Again

Richard Marx

There's been no sunlight since the day you said goodbye
Since the moment that my life turned into a masquerade
I can't even pretend to paste a smile across my face
All my dreams have been erased there's nothing left to save me
And you, you're the only one can stop my sky from falling
You're the only one who's name I keep on calling
When everything is closing in
And you, you're the only one can stop this heart from aching
You're the only one who can stop me from shaking
And put me back together again
What I'd give just to wake up and wipe your memory from my eyes
But I can't wish for bluer skies I've never been quite so hopeless
And you, you're the only one can stop my sky from falling
You're the only one who's name I keep on calling
When everything is closing in

And you, you're the only one can stop this heart from aching
You're the only one who can stop me from shaking
And put me back together again
And if you stay away, I fear it will all be too much
And if you stay away, I'll be a man who's lost his touch
And you, you're the only one can stop my sky from falling
You're the only one who's name I keep on calling
When everything is closing in
And you, you're the only one can stop this heart from aching
You're the only one who can stop me from shaking
And put me back together again, again, again
I live my life
Caress me, caress me

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/