What Separates Us All

Smoke or Fire

Is it so overwhelming to accept the fact that everybody feels?
Then classify, objectify each other, whatever helps you sleep
The upper class, the middle class, the lower, we're all one of the three
It's true that there's a color divide, it's not black or white, it's greenOne nation of division and conformity
Divided we stand, united we'll fall
So where's this land of equal opportunity?
Divided we stand, united we'll fallAs you walk along on stolen ground, ignoring poverty
Remember anyone becomes a criminal when you leave them starving
So ask the pro-life, pro-war, right wing Christian how their rationale makes sense
Should they decide whose children live or die and whose rights we should defend?One nation of division and conformity
Divided we stand, united we'll fall
So where's this land of equal opportunity?
Divided we stand, united we'll fall
