

Missouri

Starlings TN

November's almost over, gentle winter's on the way
Still I sit here on this balcony, smoke my brain away
 Waiting on that phone to ring
 Wondering which day that it will be
 Oh Carrie, I pray one day you'll go back home
 To the warmth of Southern Georgia where you belong
And leave all the pain you've felt from me here in Missouri
 Oh, you were just a young girl and I swore I could change
Everyday that you forgive me, is just another one you'll waste
 You came here in search of something true
 Looks like, girl, your searching isn't through
 Oh Carrie, I pray one day you'll go back home
 To the warmth of Southern Georgia where you belong
And leave all the pain you've felt from me here in Missouri
 It's hard to think that everything around her
 To know that won't be happy ever after
 Oh Carrie, I pray one day you'll go back home
 To the warmth of Southern Georgia where you belong
Leave all the pain you've felt from me here in Missouri
 Oh Carrie, I pray one day you'll go back home
 To the warmth of Southern Georgia where you belong
And leave all the pain you've felt from me here in Missouri
 Here in Missouri, Missouri, Missouri
