

Fair Weather Friend

Beartooth

Losing patience, you're so complacent
Running 'round in circles and I think I'm going numb
You're isolation, my head is aching
Ringing in my ears is all I'm hearing when you talk
What did you say?"How was your day?" is it just something you say
'Cause I think you only care if it goes your way
You dug your grave, so don't blame me
This is the end, fair well fair well
Fair weather friend
Good to hear from you again
Address a nation, communication
I hear you preaching all these words you can't erase
You think your scripting words of wisdom
You climb a ladder just to fall back on your face
What did you say?"How was your day?" is it just something
you say
'Cause I think you only care if it goes your way
You dug your grave, so don't blame me
This is the end, fair well fair well
Fair weather friend
Good to hear from you again
Good to hear from you again
I've been wasted, spent a life time
Letting you get the best of me
There's no meaning in your message
There's no need to set me free
"How was your day?", is it just something you say
'cause I think you only care if it goes your way
you dug your grave, so don't blame me this is the end, this is the end
"How was your day?" is it just something you say
'Cause I think you only care if it goes your way
You dug your grave, so don't blame me
This is the end, fair well fair well
Fair weather friend
So good to hear from you again
