

Willingly

Burton Gaar

I never saw it coming and i still don't understand but there was my sweet woman leaving with some other man i thought i must be dreaming i even rubbed my eyes but there she was walking out on me on and on with another guy

if you could feel the pain that's hurting me
oh you'd turn around yeah you'd turn around willingly how did all this happen and when did this thing start one night we're making love the next day you break my heart lord i need some answers to some questions on my mind but she ain't saying nothing and he's not the talking kind

if you could feel the pain
that's hurting me
oh you'd turn around
yeah you'd turn around willingly

baby leave the front door open cause i need to clear the air you know the perfume you've been wearing still lingers everywhere forgotten clothes are in the closet yeah your shampoo's in the bath and there's that hat box full of pictures little moments from the past

if you could feel the pain
that's hurting me
oh you'd turn around
yeah you'd turn around willingly

if you could feel the pain
thats hurting me
oh you'd turn around
yeah you'd turn around willingly

Lyrics submitted by Emmanuel Dylan Hernandez.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>