Dial

Drowningman

I dreamed my perspective was on a dial
Wired to spare me from my will I saw my world so dimly lit I felt my heart fainting within
And I was relieved to find how freely

The cold and strange
Could set its hue
To the setting sun
To subdue the most immersive blue

And if I wake under a sky weighed down
By clouds of ashen gray
Let me will the dial to turn and gild the air
With silver pearls of rain

I dreamed my perspective was on a dial
Wired to spare me from this will
That saw my world so dimly lit I felt my heart fainting within
And I was relieved

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by BENJAMIN DAVID CURTIS, CLAUDIA DEHEZA, ALEJANDRA DEHEZA Lyrics Â© CHRYSALIS SONGS (DIGITAL ONLY)

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/