Rush

Liz Longley

Don't stop, I like where this is going
You've got a way of coming over me like rain in June
Tongue-tied, your body warm to the touch
You're terrified, well, that makes two of us
Just the two of us, now
Have you ever felt so alive as I feel
With you tonight, so deep in your arms
And have you ever had a love so real
That through your veins you could almost feel
A rush of blood to your heart
With one kiss, you cover every inch of my skin
I feel your bliss, and all the sound of you
Aching for more, so hold me steady
As you unfold me and unleash the designAs I feel with you tonight, so deep in your arms
And have you ever had a love so real
That through your veins you could almost feel
A rush of blood to your heart
The bare moon's shining through the window
Our shadows dancing on the wall
Your pulse racing like the thunder
As we surrender to it all, have you ever felt so alive
As I feel with you tonight, so deep in your arms
And have you ever had a love so real
That through your veins you could almost feel
A rush of blood to your heart
To your heart, oh, a rush of blood to your heart
