

Disappear

Hoobastank

There's a pain that sleeps inside, it sleeps with just one eye
And awakens the moment that you're near
Though I try not to look away, the pain it still remains
Only leaving when you're next to me
Do you know that every time you're near
Everybody else seems far away?
So can you come and make them disappear?
Make them disappear and we can stay
So I stand and look around, distracted by the sounds
Of everyone and everything I see
And I search through every face without a single trace
Of the person, the person that I need
Do you know that every time you're near
Everybody else seems far away?
So can you come and make them disappear?
Make them disappear and we can stay
Can you make them disappear?
Make them disappear
There's a pain that sleeps inside, sleeps with just one eye
And awakens the moment that you're near
And I search through every face without a single trace
Of the person, the person that I need
Do you know that every time you're near
Everybody else seems far away?
So can you come and make them disappear?
Make them disappear and we can stay
