Aaron Pritchett

Lonely's To The BoneI took her keys, she took a cab
She made sure the front door slammed
Between the rain and the whiskey the whole thing was still a blurShe caught a plane to San Antone
I got that far then the trail went cold
Since then I havent heard a single word from her
Then I found out thatAll Ive lost is all I want
And all Ill ever need
And I realize the deepest cut
Can take a while to bleed
Cuz suddenly it hit me that
She left me all alone
And leavings only skin deep
But lonelys to the boneThe phone would ring once or twice
It'd be some number I dont recognize
But nobodys ever home when I call it backDoors unlocked, coffees on
The fires burnin but she still aint home
Dont know if Ill ever learn to live with that
And I found out thatCHORUSOh, it would be so easy if Her memoryd just move on
And leavings only skin deep
But lonelys to the boneLonelys to the bone x3
