

Hello Sunshine

Ethan Johns

Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
These towers of sorrow must crumble to ruin
From Jamestown to Arlington fields
These divisions just don't seem to heal

Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
This prison of fear can hold us no more
And the darkness like night on a wheel
Still turns and in time will reveal

You can't hide when you're walking a lie
The truth hurts time after time after time

Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
This labyrinth of guilt will hold its secrets no more
As the garden lays paths of its own
And it's fed by the dust of our bones

You can't hide when you're walking a lie
The truth heals time after time after time

Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
With every dawn comes a chance to be true
And the bells of tolerance peal
Shattering doctrine seals

Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
Goodbye cruel world, hello sunshine
