

We Were So Young

Hammock

We wake up early morning
Starlight on our face
It came on without warning
Two clouds in outer space
And love was our Cathedral
We were one
Naked, we were waiting
For the sun
We were so young
We were young
We were young
So young
We were so young
We were young
We were young
So young
We stumble through the back roads
Searching for the light
Living in the unknown
Hands held to the sky
The world felt like a temple
So divine
We burned just like the stars
That never die
We were so young
We were young
We were young
So young
We were so young
We were young
We were young
So young
