

Just Like a Lover

P.J. Pacifico

Just Like A Lover

(Garrison Starr/ P.J. Pacifico)

Radtown Music ASCAP

Paul P Music ASCAPi went down to the corner for ten dollar smokes i met an old woman who saw life as a joke she asked for a buck and a bottle of rum i had just beguntomorrow's the first of a hundred at sea you never can tell what the water will bring but that doesn't matter to a sailor like me who was born to weather the stormCHORUS

she's just like a lover

she rocks me to sleep

she calms and she moves me her love is so deep oh but can her waves crash down

she's just like a lover

la de da da de da

just like a lover

la de da da de dathe boys said today was a hell of a day for sailing away to the edge of the bay those boys always seem to have something to say those boys are always talkingso we set out at dusk under bright yellow stars i swear i could see all the way out to mars somehow she warmed me up in her arms as if her arms could hold meCHORUSshe comes in with the wind and goes out with the tide she leaves me so low after getting me high it'll never be fair and i'll never know why but she is always constantas the wind's dying down and it's time to head in i can already feel the longing begin but we knew where we started is where we would end she gives love when she wants itCHORUSalone at the bar with my last cigarette trying hard to remember and not to forget but sometimes i guess you just get what you get Lyrics provided by

<https://damlyrics.com/>