

Radio Girl (Live @ Wacken Open Air 2007)

Volbeat

Oh radio play me that sweet heavenly song
Well it's Saturday night and we all get into town
Broken by heartache but driven by her sound
Well a spell from the speakers was tearing my soul apart
Oh radio man would you please play that song
One day I know that I'll marry that girl
Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up
Alone I roam
Cause the drive-in is closing, the movies out of work
But the music is playing in my old Bett Betty Ford
Oh radio man would you please play that song
One day I know that I'll marry that girl
Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up
Alone I roam
Standing in the rain with one coin for a booth call
Oh Madeline, the station told me that they didn't even know your name, for helvede
Strolling to another city just to catch a song, oh Madeline
The frequency is better, but I'm freezing on a parking lot, it never ends
Broken by heartache but driven by her sound
Well a spell from the speakers was tearing my soul apart
Oh radio man would you please play that song
One day I know that I'll marry that girl
Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up
Alone I roam
Strolling to another city just to catch a song, oh Madeline
The frequency is better, but I'm freezing on a parking lot, it never ends

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>