Say Your Goodbyes

Goodnight Nurse

There's a look in your eye a moon that lyes beneath
Buried disguise bring on loyalty
She will believe every word that you say
Cause she loves you soIf she could read your mind
Would you straight her correct in the night
If she could see your life
Could she bring herself to say goodbyeIn the back of your mind
Does it feel wrong that she'll stand by your side
While you lead her on
How do you sleep at night
How could you cheat when she loves you soIf she could read your mind
Would you straight her correct in the night
If she could see your life
Could she bring herself to say
I gave you fame, You gave shame
How could you she cried
Where will you stay, Where will you lay when you leave tonight
And if there's any good inside say your goodbyesWhere will you stay tonight
If she could read your mind
Would you straight her correct in the night
If she could see your life
Could she bring herself to say
I gave you fame, You gave shame
How could you she cried
Where will you stay, Where will you lay when you leave tonight
Ah ah ah ah ah
Say your goodbyes
(That look in your eye, Buried disguise)
Say your Goodbyes
