

Without You

FFH

Without You, there'd be no sunrise
Without You, there'd be no light
Without You, there'd be no answers
To the questions in my life You bring joy in the morning
You bring comfort in the night
In Your hand You hold the heavens
You make everything alright Saturday afternoon I've got nothing to do
So I jump in my car and drive 'round for a while
This is my holy place, my favorite escape
And as I drive this song comes to mind Without You, there'd be no sunrise
Without You, there'd be no light
Without You, there'd be no answers
To the questions in my life You bring joy in the morning
You bring comfort in the night
In Your hand You hold the heavens
You make everything alright Round and round and round and round we go
When we stop only heaven can know Without You, there'd be no sunrise
Without You, there'd be no light
Without You, there'd be no answers
To the questions in my life You bring joy in the morning
You bring comfort in the night
In Your hand You hold the heavens
You make everything alright Without You, there'd be no sunrise
Without You, there'd be no light
Without You, there'd be no answers
To the questions in my life You bring joy in the morning
You bring comfort in the night
In Your hand You hold the heavens
You make everything alright Round and round and round and round we go
Without You, there'd be no light
Round and round and round and round we go
Without You, there'd be no light
