Fool For Love

Karen Kamon

(duet with johnny hallyday-english version)
(johnny's part)
I'm coming out with my angel,
Put down your guns and i'll...confess.
I loved her more than life itself,
My angel in a pale blue dress.
But if you want to shoot, then shoot,
I'd welcome an eternal sleep.
No man has ever felt a love,
So deep.
(michael's part)
I took her life, her tender life,
I couldn't bear to think that she,
Could laugh and love and give herself,
To any other man than me.
So if my world would end tonight,
I will not cry...i do not care.
I'll meet her in another life,
Somewhere.
Chorus:

(johnny and michael)
I was a fool, a fool for love,
A fool who believed, that she came from above.
I'll stay a fool, until I die,
She was my world, my breath, my sky.
I'm just a fool, who lost all control,
Along with my soul.
In time the fool, becomes a clown,
And you all laugh, as I fall down.
(michael's part)
I'll never be at peace again,
I'll never feel her warm caress,
I'll leave each day just thinking of,
My angel in a pale blue dress.
(johnny's part)
And when her body's in the ground,
Make sure you save a space for me,
For that's the only place, I long to be.
