

How Loud Your Heart Gets

Lucius

Oh our igloo house is bigger now oh we've made each brick of ice like stone oh It's a fort that can't be broken oh
A place no one would ever find us oh We were children now we've grown
We were children now we've grown oh
We were children now we've grown
We were children now we've grown Nobody knows how loud your heart gets cause we're a million miles away but I still hear you and I'm going going going going to get you I'll tell you all my memories and you will tell me yours the colors of my favorite trees before the winter's war
The reasons you and me should talk about the great unknown without the distance in between and all the obstacles we've known The things we know we just don't know
The things we know we don't know
The things we know we just don't know
The things we know we don't know CHORUS
