Song for Zack

Jesse Ruben

A little different, a little different still the same life feels distant, out of focus nowadays And it might take a little longer to get from point B to points A Your wheels wont turn but you will learn, that you can get there anyway
And this is just to say

I believe in miracles
And in love, so bitter so sweet
There are many ways to hold your head up high and many ways to stand on your own
And I want you to know, you can always count on me

When you're scared, and the questions don't connect I'll be there, I wear the proof around my neck and when you're feeling burdened by the bad days that collect You and I will kill old time, so you can take an easy breathe and let these words reflect

I believe in miracles
and in love, so bitter and so sweet There are many ways to keep your spirit strong and many ways to overcome defeat
and i want you to know you can always count on me

You're searching for sensations You're choosing your path
You taught me how to fight again
By learning how to laugh I'm adding up the numbers, but I still can't do the math and I wish that I had been there to save you Zack

Cause I believe in miracles,
and in love so bitter and so sweet
there are many ways to hold your head up high and many ways to stand on your own feet

Cause I believe in miracles
and I want you to know, you can always count on me

Lyrics submitted by Megan Gorecki.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/