

Same Old Man

John Hiatt

Truth is I never was young
Shot like a bullet from a rusty old gun
I could never find the straight and true
Honey, baby till I found you I aint saying I ever grown up, girl
Oh, Im the biggest baby in the world
I know you can say a lot about that
But youre so sweet you keep it under your hat Honey, Im still the same old man
That you married way back when
A few less brain cells, a lot less hair
Honey, tell me do you still care? I love you more than I ever did
I love you just like a little kid
Guess Ill always be your biggest fan
Honey, Im still the same old man We been down a rough road or two
This is another one well get through
Dont ask me how I know
Im just saying baby, please dont go 'Cause I can still sparkle up your eyes
And you can still cut me down to size
Please take me as I am
Honey, Im still the same old man Honey, Im still the same old man
That you married way back when
A few less brain, a lot less hair
Honey, tell me do you still care I love you more than I ever did
I love you just like a little kid
I guess Ill always be your biggest fan
Honey, Im still the same old man You start out trying to change everything
You wind up dancing with who you bring
I loved you then and my love still stands
Honey, Im still the same old man

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>