Morning Theft

Jeff Buckley

Time takes care of the wound, so I can believe
You had so much to give, you thought I couldn't see
Gifts for boot, heels to crush, promises deceived
I had to send it away to bring us back againYour eyes and body brighten silent waters deep
Your precious daughter in the other room asleep
A kiss goodnight from every stranger that I meet
I had to send it away to bring us back again
Morning theft unpretender left ungratefulTrue self is what brought you here to me
A place where we can accept this love
Friendship battered down by useless history
Unexamined failureWhat am I still to you? Some thief who stole from you?
Or some fool drama queen whose chances were few?
That brings us to who we need, a place where we can save t that beats as both siphon and reservoirYou're a woman, I'm a calf, you're a window, I'm a kni

A heart that beats as both siphon and reservoirYou're a woman, I'm a calf, you're a window, I'm a knife

We come together making chance in the starlight

Meet me tomorrow night or any day you want

I have no right to wonder just how or whenAnd though the meaning fits, there's no relief in this

I miss my beautiful friend

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/

I had to send it away to bring her back again