

Where You're Coming From

Matt & Kim

I hear that shoe strings tend to break but they tie back together great I feel I know i know where youre coming from Notebooks filled with lines and the clocks filled with good times i think i know i know where youre coming from ohh i know, i know where youre coming from i never have enough and you always have too much i might just know, i know where youre coming from quarters full the wash all the other coins are tossed i said i know i know where youre coming ohhh i know where youre coming from im on my feet today and im walking to the grave i drew this map by hand to show you how to become a man im on my feet today and then im walking to the grave i said i-i know where youre coming from where youre coming from we the broke the walls out in this old bedroom of your house to make rooms for dreams i know where youre coming from we hear they come and go but today its here to stay
i said i know
i know where youre coming from ohhh i know, i know where youre coming from im on my feet today and im walk in to the grave
i drew this map by hand
show you how to become a man im on my feet today and then i walk in to the grave
i said i-i know where youre coming from
where youre coming from

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>