

Everything

Sean Watkins

I always hide a few good reasons up my sleeve
Ready made for the day I want to leave
I always hold back a few peices of myself
Stored away for when it all goes to hell
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I keep some weapons inside this heart of mine
They weigh me down, but they keep me alive
Try loving someone who is always reacing for his gun
I have never laid down all my arms for anyone
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
Come break the silence with me now
Can you believe in what we found
Come lay beside me now
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I have never stayed too long on an unknown road
Every map I followed was the one I choose
I never fully handed over both reins
I never opened my heart up to the idea of so much pain
I have never been this far with anyone
Halfway there is where I usually run
But I can't deny you I won't turn away
I can't find one reasone why I shouldn't stay
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
I would give everything to you
