

Sunday Morning

Angel

So it began that day on royal grounds
She met the Prince that she would try to tie him down
He held the reigns of power and many victory
And won the hearts of women with his chivalry
Now the Queen had told the King about the Baroness
How she had fell in love with a knight of the very best
Word soon spread fast around the castle and the land
They were in love and she would soon take his hand
Well, she missed her chance to grab romance
He left that day
On a Sunday Morning, they say
The King had made arrangements for their Wedding day
No price too big enough that he wouldn't pay
What happened then was something only they could tell
She watched him gallop off as the whole town-people yelled
