

Pixelated Skies

Paper Lights

so what of this light ascends to fill your sorrow so what of these friends that make you feel so hollow so what if you're right the future holds our home lived out through broken glass that claimed us for its own to be known was all you wanted to experience the high
to see more was all you needed under pixelated skies would you follow me out of this digital sea we've got nothing left but everything to lose would you follow me back into reality we've got nothing left but everything to lose so what of this work that gives you all your meaning does it offer you the best of now while stealing your tomorrow
to be known was all you wanted
to experience the high
to see more was all you needed
under pixelated skies would you follow me out of this digital sea
we've got nothing left but everything to lose
would you follow me back into reality
we've got nothing left but everything to lose

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>