

The Last Song

12 Stones

I'm sorry for needing you to carry me
So simple sometimes when You're standing next to me You never change
You never stay the same
Like a picture-perfect sunrise
Every time with one last song to sing Take it all away from me
And tell me how you want this to be
I want you, I need you Take it all away from me
And tell me how you want this to be
I want you, I need you A life without you made me wonder
Why I'm here, until I found you
Nothing ever seemed so clear You never change
You never stay the same
Every time with one last song to sing Take it all away from me
And tell me how you want this to be
I want you, I need you Take it all away from me
And tell me how you want this to be
I want you, I need you I lose myself in everything you say
I lose myself in everything
Never knew that I could feel this way
Never knew that I could feel Take it all away from me
And tell me how you want this to be
I want you, I need you Take it all away from me
And tell me how you want this to be
I want you, I need you I lose myself in everything you say
(You say)
I lose myself in everything you say
(You say) I lose myself in everything you say
(You say)
I lose myself in everything you say
(You say)
