

Next Plane Home

Daniel Powter

I woke up early to baby blue eyes from afar
And when the sun comes through
And lights you like the angel you are
I know I do you wrong when I'm with you I've been gone
With every season change, it looks the same November to June
And don't these empty streets skip a beat, the flowers don't bloom
I can't believe I missed your birthday again
And I wanna come back but I just don't know when now
And I'm so lonely, you're not here with me
That's why I'm gonna be on the next plane home
The road that never ends around the bend, I see you smile
I'd swim across the sea to be with you for a while
'Cause I made a life of being gone
Now the way that I feel is I just don't belong here
And I'm so lonely you're not here with me
That's why I'm gonna be on the next plane home
And you're, you're the only place I wanna see
That's why I'm gonna be on the next plane home
Stand around trying to make every moment
And be somebody, yeah, anybody
It seems the whole world is taking me over
I need somebody to help me get back to when
I've always been a million miles away
But things are gonna change, I just wanna come home
And you're, you're the only place I wanna see
That's why I'm gonna be on the next plane home
Yeah, I'm taking the next plane home
Now I'm getting the next plane home
Now I'm taking the next plane home

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>