

Goodnight, New Jersey

Vonrenzo

Goodnight, New Jersey
I guess with you I don't belong
In truth I have missed you missing me
But I've grown tired from holding on...
Were you even there, No I won't be fair
And now you're too numb to care...
Farewell, New Jersey
Though I still want to become your need
I loved you watching me watching you
With no words of distance to speak
And as you fade away, darling I must say
It's a shame you don't feel the same
Because once, once I had this dream
There was no one else to seek
No where else to reach,
Just you and just me
And now that was so long ago,
And I'm someone still far away
With nothing left to say,
Except did you ever love me?
Perhaps my dream
This dream was yours
Goodbye, New Jersey...
By the time you hear this
I'll be gone...
