

Living (Give Me a Reason)

World5

I saw the news a tornado tore up a small town
One home untouched but the next destroyed
Some say it's another sign of a final count down
No reason or explanation to fill the void Some will claim it's gods retribution
And some will say theres no god to get revenge
Just a another weather pattern that has changed its direction
Two sides of nothing to the man whose family is dead Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living
Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living And then there's those who appear to have a good life
Satisfied with everything as long as they win
But as the pendulum swings to the other side
With big change the big questions begin I see the worry even in smiling faces
I see a world of hurt with no end in sight
A pageant of seaming unfair circumstances
True/false, wrong/right the question is why? Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living
Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living
Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living Give up, give in
Give me a reason for living
Give up, give in
