

Nothing but Good to You

Nowherebound

Nothing But Good To You

Well I gave my heart to you, then you beat it black and blue.Â
When Iâ€™ve been nothing but good to you.Â

Well, thank the gods itâ€™s over, couldnâ€™t carry on much longer,Â
Trying to keep it all from dying, stem the bleeding, stop the heart,Â
Tired of waking up in panicked fits, to fix it all and can it be?Â
I held it all together just to watch it fall apart.Â

I zealously made love the god I prayed to,Â
And jealousy and heresy betrayed you,Â
Iâ€™d open up the hymnal and then fall out of the pew,Â
When you wouldnâ€™t even share your point of view.Â

You took my love and with a â€œthanksâ€• you treat me like you doÂ
When Iâ€™ve been nothing but good to you.Â

Tired of waking in the middle, tired of listening to a liar,Â
Tired of dealing with the bullshit after putting out the fires,Â
Tired of being sold your healing and your â€œwildnessâ€• and your magic,Â
And your endless love that ended about the time the next thing came.Â

But itâ€™s not from lack of trying that we made it here.Â
And if that needs clarifying let me make it clear,Â
If it wasnâ€™t for your lying, then my love that was undying,Â
Wouldnâ€™t be buried and gone within the year.Â

Well a perfect chordâ€™s a triad, but what if it falls out of tune?Â
Iâ€™ve been nothing but good to you.Â

Well you hid your love inside a heart I couldnâ€™t break into,Â
Iâ€™ve been nothing but good to you.Â

But itâ€™s not from lack of trying that we made it here.Â
And if that needs clarifying let me make it clear,Â
If it wasnâ€™t for your lying, then my love that was couldnâ€™t die,Â would still be alive and well saying â€œno hard feelingsâ€•...Â

But my last memory of us was of our last rendezvousÂ

So Iâ€™ll have nothing to do with you.Â

When I gave you all my heart and then you slapped it black and blue,Â
When Iâ€™ve been nothing but good to you.Â
