

Everytime You Throw Dirt On Her (you Lose A Little

George Strait

I guess you think it's fun to laugh at her expense
And point out each mistake she makes in front of all your friends
You figure she'll let it go by 'cause she loves you so

But you know
Every time you throw dirt on her
You lose a little ground
She slips a little farther away
Each time that you put her down
A lady like that can come here and get
Somebody who knows what he's found
And every time you throw dirt on her

You lose a little ground
It's hard to bite my lip but I ain't saying a word
I give you all the rope to hang yourself that you deserve
You might be ahead of me in her heart today

But that's okay
Every time you throw dirt on her
You lose a little ground
She slips a little farther away

Each time that you put her down
A lady like that can come here and get
Somebody who knows what he's found
And every time you throw dirt on her

You lose a little ground
Every time you throw dirt on her
You lose a little ground
She slips a little farther away
Each time that you put her down
A lady like that can come here and get
Somebody who knows what he's found
And every time you throw dirt on her

You lose a little ground
And every time you throw dirt on her
You lose a little ground
She slips a little farther away
Each time that you put her down
