

Hell to Pay

leah andreone

If I didn't know your game
Would you lay me down and lie about your name?
If things didn't go your way
Would you tell the lawyers you were just playing? If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god? If the rich were weak would you fight for their lives
Without a marriage would you give up your wife
If you saw me coming would you take another route
In your house does difference stay out? If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god
If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god? Do you dig for gold, would you sell your soul
What should we know, who are you when you're alone?
If my eyes were closed would you launch your stones?
What should we know, who are you when you are all alone? With the cameras off, would you beat him till he's dead?
If you found the cure, would you make us beg?
If no one had to work, would you still get out of bed?
If the bullet was for me, would you take it in the head? If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god
If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god? Do you dig for gold, would you sell your soul
What should we know, who are you when you're alone?
If my eyes were closed would you launch your stones?
What should we know, who are you when you are all alone? If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god
If there were no hell to pay
I wonder would you still need a god? Would you still need a god
If there were no hell to pay
Would you still need a god
If there were no hell to pay
Would you still need a god
